The Grand Lodge of Saskatchewan

To be the Fraternal Organization of choice for men in the Province of Saskatchewan

June: is named after Juno the queen of the Roman gods. In Roman mythology Juno was the protectress of women and marriage. In modern times June is often referred to as the bridal month.

Brethren: The month of May will soon be behind us and hopefully also winter, COVID and the likes. My term as Grand Master will end in June and I will hand the reins over to RW Bro. Elliott to steer us through the next year. This is my last Musings and I appreciate the feedback I have received regarding the Musings throughout these past two years.

Leadership and Legacy: Leadership is the ability of an individual or a group of individuals to influence and guide followers or other members of an organization. Everyone has had to be a leader at some point in their life, whether it is coaching kids, guiding your family or chairing a meeting. Freemasonry encourages all Masons to be leaders and is structured in a way that allows each man to hone his leadership skills. In the General Charge it lays out some of the characteristics of a good leader. These include integrity, administration of justice, resolution, leading by example and always working for the cause of good. A good leader will always try to bring the best out of people. A good leader understands that decisions and actions have an impact on everyone around. A leader’s legacy will not only be reflected in the goals accomplished but by those people touched in a positive way, inspiring future leaders.

I hope I have inspired some of you with your goals and leadership aspirations over these past couple of years .
